Tabulation Of Votes After Heavy Turnout At Half-Way Point

PORTLAND, Maine, Sept. 10 (P-Maine, long deemed a Republican fortress, today returned its Democratic governor to a second term.

Boyish-looking Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, 42, trounced GOP House Speaker Willis A. Trafton to become the first governor of his party to be re-elected in a presidential year-at least since the Civil War.

PORTLAND, Maine, Sept. 10 (A) -The Democratic governor and three Republican congressional candidates were out front as tabulation of votes in today's Maine election neared the half-way point. In 361 of 630 precincts, Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, had a 9,064 vote edge on Republican House Speaker Willis A. Trafton Jr. Their totals: Muskie 47,951 and Trafton 38,887.

LOOK FOR YOUR LETTER

To the Man Who is Hesitating....

There are many motorists here in this community who have given serious consideration to the purchase of a new Cadillac car this year-and yet, for one reason or another, have not made the move.

If you are among them, we hope that you will pause to read the little message that follows. For we are sure you will find it interesting.

Ordinarily, when a man hesitates to make the move to Cadillac, it is because he is not familiar with the practical aspects of Cadillac ownership.

Insofar as original cost is concerned, a Cadillac is eminently practical. Several models, in fact, are actually priced competitively with the so-called "medium-priced" makes.

Operating and maintenance costs are also remarkably low. We have heard it said by new owners that Cadillac is the most economical automobile they have ever owned.

SALES

205 N. Mechanic Street

And as for resale value-well, Cadillac traditionally retains a greater share of its worth through the years than any other motor car in the land.

In short, the great Cadillac car represents one of the wisest and soundest automotive investments on the highway today.

The moral of our message is this: It is still not too late to set things right in a 1956 Cadillac of your own!

We have a selection of new Cadillacs on handand we can promise you both prompt delivery and a generous trade-in allowance.

Why not come in today?

After seeing the film, children make calls over actual telephones and use directories right in the classroom. They learn how the telephone works, how to look up numbers, the correct way to dial and good telephone manners. And they love it.

The telephone is such a useful and valuable tool in modern living that we're always glad to help our schools and teachers give children this important training.

Nasser's Activities Worry Arab Leaders

This is an intoxicating hour for President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt. Only a short time ago he was an unknown army colonel. Today he is the acknowledged leader of the Arab nations, but the whole world is waiting to see how the crisis he has created by seizing the Suez Canal will end.

But the perch of power and prestige that Nasser occupies at the moment has insecure foundations. Nasser's potential for trouble making is based only partly on his leadership of Egypt, which is an impoverished land with relatively little mili-

Nasser's trump card is his ability to call on the support and sympathy of the remainder of the Arab world. The leaders of these nations rushed to back him up when he seized the canal.

But some of the major Arab leaders seem somewhat less than enthusiastic at the moment about Nasser. They are not happy about the manner in which he has appointed himself leader and spokesman for the Arab world. They are upset by the way he takes drastic steps, such as the Suez seizure, without consulting his Arab friends.

They are especially annoyed and disturbed by the way in which Egyptian propagandists have stirred up street mobs in their own countries. Furthermore, Communists have been using Nasser's popularity with the Arab masses to stir up trouble in these other Arab states.

This is bad medicine fo rrulers like King Hussein of Jordan, who is visibly worried and has Lebanon to join him in a conference on the problem. King Saud of Saudi Arabia is reported to been trying to persuade the presidents of Syria and share his worries, although he has said nothing

This division among the Arab states may not be too serious as yet. But Nasser does not have all the aces in his hand and the West may be able to cut him down to size if it plays the cards it holds carefully and well.

Red China And The U. S.

It is impossible in a moral world to separate politics from moral law, although the Machiavellians, who reject absolutes of any kind, refuse to accept the moral law as a guide for political action. They favor a pragmatic expediency, but pragmatism can lead to disaster because what works today may be very unsound tomorrow, whereas certain fundamental principles, such as "Thou Shalt Not Kill," are everlasting.

George F. Kennan makes the point in an article that there is little hope for better relations between the United States and Red China. Then he adds:

". . . I have never shared and cannot now share In the savage enthusiasm many Americans have worked up over the cause of keeping the Chinese Communists out of the United Nations. I fail to see the logic of this position or to understand the overriding importance people attach to the question. It is not my understanding that we ever objected on principle to the inclusion of Communist states in the United

This attitude completely ignores the nature of the Korean War which was declared to be a United Nations police action and into which the Chinese Communists intervened with the object of defeating the United Nations forces. Eventually they put up a campaign to force themselves upon the United Nations. Their attitude could not be translated otherwise than an attempt to shoot their way into the United Nations. That cannot be other than an immoral act which needs to be defeated so that no other nation may have a precedent for dealing with a United Nations question by the use of force. As a matter of fact, since the Korean War, the Arab nations have resorted to force in their attitude toward Israel and the United Nations has been able to do nothing about it.

Since the Korean War, Red China has held a number of Americans as prisoners. Some were soldiers, some civilians, some missionaries. Negotiations for the release of these prisoners have been continuous for more than a year without satisfactory results. The Red Chinese are treating us contemptibly. It is impossible to deal with a nation that has no honor. no dignity, no truth. Until a new government, based on moral principles, comes into existence in Peking, there is no reason why we should deal with what is

Mr. Kennan says:

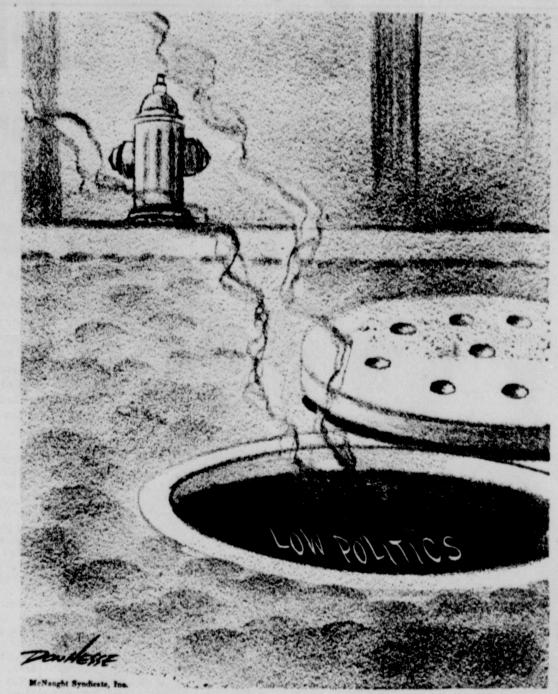

. . And to scratch around now among Communist regimes to establish relative degrees of iniquity, entitling some to membership and others not, is an undertaking for which I personally have no stomach

But we do not need to scratch around for relative degrees of iniquity. The iniquity asserts itself and there are just some things that are intolerable in nations as they are in man. One of them is lying; another is arrogance. We know that Red China lied when her propagandists throughout the world spread the story of germ warfare. Some may shrug it off as a clever press agent's stunt. It was a lie, a deliberate, cold-blooded lie designed to picture the United States as a barbarous, inhuman nation. That lie was so widespread that it is still believed. It was used as propaganda even by the Communist party in this country. It is not necessary for us to condone that lie no matter how much satisfaction it would give other nations if we accepted the miserable publicity campaign as one of those things. We are morally on sound ground when we reject a nation that stoops to such methods.

I think that George Kennan misses the point altogether when he raises this question as he did in this article in the socialist magazine, "The New Leader." The issue is not whether when we vote a nation into the United Nations, we ipso facto approve of that nation and Its way of life Of course, we do not. The American people do not approve of Tito's dictatorship, or of Nasser's. Some Americans do not approve of Franco's monarchism. But in the case of Red China, the American attitude is not one of lack of approval; it is a matter of total rejection. That is why Congress has so often voted resolutions against the seating of Red China in the United Nations, threatening to withdraw the United States if Red. China is admitted. There does not seem to be any moral

On The Campaign Parade Route?

Drama Unfolds In Wisconsin Election Race Today

MILWAUKEE, Wisc.

There is a kind of savageness about American politics which lends the great game a special drama of its own. The drama takes many forms. The commonest form is the sudden political destruction of an old and well-established politican by an ambitious younger man, as the aging leader of the wolf pack is destroy ed by a young, strong wolf. Here in Wisconsin, the four wealthy manufacturers who really run the Republican organization have been trying to cast old Sen. Alexander Wiley for the first role, and young, aggressive Rep. Glenn Davis for

At the recent state Republican convention, the Republican quadrumvirate-Tom Coleman, Wayne Hood, William Grady, and Walter Harnischseger-decided to dump Wiley, after 18 years in the Sencan endorsement to Davis.

Wiley, weeping, vowed to fight on. The Republican primary here today will tell the story. At the moment, Wiley is believed to have a slight edge. But Davis is a brilliant campaigner. He has all the money he needs at his disposal, and the all-out backing of the organization. And old Wiley is Perhaps, in Wiley's case, the simile of the wolf pack is not well chosen, since Wiley is a notably unwolfish fellow. He is a vain, comfortable, jolly, tactless, paunchy man of 72, who loves to laugh at his own jokes, and who also loves, like many elderly men, to recall

He recalls, for example, the day 40 years ago when he decided to get out of politics and stay out. He was the aspiring young district attorney of Chippewa Falls, his home town, when an older relative who had been in Congress for many terms was defeated by a younger man. "He just came home and cracked up before our very eyes," Wiley says, "and I got right out of politics for good-or that's what I thought." The parallel with his own situation is not lost on Wiley, and his booming laugh seems a trifle forced.

Wiley's not unusual situation is lent significance by a simple fact. For Alexander Wiley sums up in his own person whatever success Dwight D. Eisenhower has thus far enjoyed in his stated purpose of remaking the Republican party in his own image.

When Wiley broke his promise to himself to stay out of politics, and entered the Senate in 1938 as a fellow freshman with the late Robert A. Taft, he was an all-out isolationist. Thereafter, he was generally identified with the Taft slow osmosis of seniority, he became the senior Republican on the vital Foreign Relations Committee, there was apprehension in the Eisenhower administration.

Followed Ike's Lead

But instead of fighting Eisenhower. Wiley has gone right down the line for the Eisenhower foreign policy. Both as committee chairman and as ranking minority member. Wiley has sided with the President in fighting the Bricker Amendment, and he has supported -sometimes not very effectivelyforeign aid, reciprocal tariffs, and every other major item of the Eisenhower foreign program.

It is this support of Eisenhower which has brought Wiley to his present danger. It infuriated the isolationist-minded Wisconsin Republican quadrumvirate, unrecond gave the official Republi- wing of his party. When, by the structed Taftites and McCarthyites

It would put the entire New Hampshire congressional delegation on a delicate spot, Bridges pleaded. They would have to keep their staffs out of political campaigns and stop mailing political speeches, or risk public censure by reporting how much staff work and mail was devoted to politics.

But Powell, who once worked in Bridges' office, bit the hand that had boosted him. Powell flatly rejected every appeal Bridges could Thus ended a long political friendship.

It was meant only for the eyes of top Democrats, but Michigan's Gov. Mennen "Soapy" Williams has called for a "reassessment" of the Democratic appeal to nationality groups.

In a confidential memo to Democratic candidates. Governor Williams points out: "There are 34,000,000 Americans-foreign-born naturalized citizens and their American-born sons and daughters -throughout the United States, Many of their votes can be yours provided that you know their prob-

A beauty contest open only to women of 40, no more no less. Idea of this competition is to show that women of 40 can still be sensationally shapely and beautiful. Does that need proving? Consider the number of feminine film stars who are 40 or over and are still shining with their beauty a major factor. With the artificial aids to beauty now available there is no reason why any intelligent woman of 40 shouldn't be able to appear 15 years younger. SIDELIGHTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (A) - The harried pilots of the three warfaring teams in the gripping National League pennant race welcomed the day of rest today. But it was doubtful whether they'll get much sleep tonight on the eve of what may prove the most important series of the campaign.

Two of the three unyielding trio -Fred Haney of Milwaukee and Walter Alston of Brooklyn-appeared optimistic while the third-Birdie Tebbetts of Cincinnatibreathed defiance as the leagueleading Braves and second place Dodgers prepared for their twogame series at Ebbets Field while the third place Redlegs took on the New York Giants at the Polo

"We're still in the lead," declared Haney, "and as long as we keep winning, nobody can lay a hand on us. The other clubs have been trying to catch us for a month and they haven't done it. They'll be trying for another month without doing it."

Haney Is Grateful

Milwaukee's one-game lead may not seem much but Haney was grateful for any lead at all considering his team had dropped five in a row prior to Sunday's doubleheader sweep in Chicago.

Basilio Remains Favorite To Take Welter Crown

Title Go Is Set Wednesday Night

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 10 P-Carmen Basilio, grimly determined to win back the world welterweight title from Johnny Saxton, finished gym work for Wednesday's 15-round match today and predicted victory.

"I don't know if it will be by points or a knockout, but I know I'm going to win" said the 29year-old former champion who lost the crown to Saxton March 14 at Chicago on a hotly disputed Basilio did five rounds of gym work in his final drill, loosening up and sharpening his timing.

Joe Netro, Basilio's co-manager, predicted his man would have no trouble making the welter limit of 147 pounds. He expected Car men to weigh about 1461/2.

Norm Rothschild, local co-pro moter with the International Boxing Club, said the advance sale for the 15-round match already had reached $105,000. He hopes for a sellout crowd of 9,000 and a $150,000 gate, Another $75,000 will be added from the radio-television sponsors who will beam the fight of ABC

Frostburg Rotary Also Hears Butler
